

- Home

-

- About SFS

-

School of Foreign Service - Georgetown

Georgetown University's Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service, founded in 1919, is a premier school of international affairs in Washington, D.C.

Feed on

Posts

SSP Student and Graduate Are Essay Contest Winners

Sep 12th, 2011 by sfs

SFS' Security Studies Program (SSP) has reason to be proud as a recent alumna and a current student took first and second place respectively in a national essay contest commemorating the September 11th attacks.

Sara Moller (G'06), won first place and a scholarship of $20,000 in the National Richard A. Clarke Graduate Student Monograph Contest sponsored by the California-based Center for First Amendment Studies.

Second place and a scholarship of $10,000 went to Dimitar Georgiev (G'13).

"It's a great honor and also very personal for me," Moller says. "For my generation and many others 9/11 was a defining moment. ... It forced me to re-examine what I thought I knew and believed about the world.

Her monograph titled, "Lessons Learned and Unlearned: The Tenth Anniversary of September 11, 2001" made several policy recommendations, including an overhaul of the Department of Homeland Security.

Read the full story from Georgetown University's Office of Communications.

Like | Share

Comments (0)

To leave or reply comments, please download free Podbean iOS App or Android App.

No Comments

SSP Student and Graduate Are Essay Contest Winners

Sep 12th, 2011 by sfs

SFS' Security Studies Program (SSP) has reason to be proud as a recent alumna and a current student took first and second place respectively in a national essay contest commemorating the September 11th attacks.

Sara Moller (G'06), won first place and a scholarship of $20,000 in the National Richard A. Clarke Graduate Student Monograph Contest sponsored by the California-based Center for First Amendment Studies.

Second place and a scholarship of $10,000 went to Dimitar Georgiev (G'13).

“It’ a great honor and also very personal for me,” Moller says. “For my generation and many others 9/11 was a defining moment. ... It forced me to re-examine what I thought I knew and believed about the world.

Her monograph titled, “Lessons Learned and Unlearned: The Tenth Anniversary of September 11, 2001” made several policy recommendations, including an overhaul of the Department of Homeland Security.

Read the full story from Georgetown University's Office of Communications.